

“Prayers” ~A.L. Moss, Sr.

Prayer is a relational connection and communication with God. It's when I need God to come into the context of man. Prayer is not a religious performance. Our private prayer life should outshine our public prayer life.

Prayer is the only vehicle that, when it's relationally driven, He'll allow it to change His mind. But scripture says, God changes not, that He is the same yesterday, today and forever more. That's true, however God can never change regarding His character, but He can change regarding His actions, (Exodus 32:14; Jeremiah 26:19; Amos 7:2-3).

We can go to God for pardon, and He can shift His judgement to mercy. He stayed the same; He just shifted to a part of His changeless nature, which allowed Him to change His actions, (Matthew 7:7-12).
