Dear Visionary,

Today is the first day of a seasonal shift in your life! There are moments in our existence, where we are required to scrutinize our strengths and weakness so that we may discover and unearth the treasures that are hidden therein. Life will teach you that past seasons can leave you devastated or determined; you decide.

It's important that you grasp the fact that regardless of the circumstances you find yourself in, you were born in this generation because this generation needs the gifts and abilities you possess. You are here on purpose, it is no accident. You have unique capabilities that if refined and applied, can enhance the quality of life for everyone you encounter on your life's journey.

Today is about helping you to focus on your gifts and uniqueness. To hold you accountable for the talents that God has assigned you to steward over. Today is about helping you to move beyond the basics. Today we will challenge you to look with a different perspective; to see with sharper vision; to hope with greater expectancy; and to work like your next is now!

All I ask is that when you feel uncomfortable, when you feel like retreating, when you feel like tuning out because you're being found out, LEAN IN, DIG IN, AND FORGE AHEAD! The greatness that is in you will be drawn out today! Welcome to Power & Focus!!

Humbly,

Dr. Robert C. Randolph
