

Restoring Broken Lives through the Hope of Jesus Christ

Kayla's Story of Restoration

Kayla had two constants in her life: Jesus and eating issues. At 12 years old, Kayla began to struggle with food and eating. By 13, it was clear to her and her family that the problem was significant. This realization prompted a search for help and healing. Kayla was a believer in Jesus but her faith did not provide an instant resolution to her struggles. She tried counseling, nutritional solutions, and even a program designed to help young women like herself, but nothing brought wholeness. By the time she was 27, she had reached a breaking point, knowing deep in her soul that she could not continue living this way.

Kayla wanted to do something meaningful with her life, so she applied to the Servant Leader Program at His Mansion.

She believed serving others in the context of a healing, Christ-centered environment, would benefit her as she sought her own freedom and healing. In her Servant Leader interview, Kayla was open and honest about her life, faith, and struggles.

After a process of prayer and discernment, His Mansion approached Kayla with the option of joining the Resident Recovery Program. This redirection was hard to hear, but God softened Kayla's heart and within 2 weeks she was at His Mansion and beginning her journey of restoration.

As a Resident, Kayla realized that her "primary problem was not food but control" and her time on the Hill was a journey of learning how to trust and let go. The solitude of life at His Mansion helped her to find peace; this "slowing down" allowed her to hear God more clearly, to listen to needed hard things from others, and to be known, seen, and fully loved. Over time, seeing others share with vulnerability encouraged her to do the same. Kayla fully committed to the process and took the risk to be fully known. "It's scary, at first, to be in a community where you cannot hide," Kayla recalls. Looking back, however, she attributes much of her healing to the way the His Mansion community called her out of hiding and met her with grace and love.

Kayla graduated in June of 2025. She has learned daily reliance on God while giving Him control and the beauty of accepting love from God and others. Kayla understands who she is in Christ and has the assurance of Jesus' presence as she continues her journey of life-long healing.

NEW INITIATIVES

His Mansion invites you to be a part of supporting a project designed to restore spaces that hold restored lives. New initiatives to refresh critical environments and repurpose underutilized spaces are underway. Major areas of focus include new flooring and bathrooms in the women's dorm and repurposing underutilized areas in the men's dorm. A fitness area has already been created as part of this vision and has begun to serve the fitness needs of the programs, staff and their families.

Consider helping us reach our goal of $125,000 to create spaces where transformation through Christ can be put first. You can participate in this opportunity by visiting our website giving page and selecting the fund "Project Refresh & Repurpose" or by scanning the QR code.

How did God use the community at His Mansion to play a role in your growth?

"The community showed more love for me than I showed myself." - Alex D.

"I can be seen and understood when I put in the work instead of isolating. It also gave me deep relationships that are healing both physically and spiritually." - Charity
