THOUGHTS ON THE JOURNEY

Our worship should always be rooted in theology. Often, when we hear the word theology, we are tempted to think it's just for those in academics or preachers. The truth is, you have a theology whether you know it or not. Some people's theology is rooted in scripture and some in their own form of logic, but we all have a theology. Simply put, theology is what we know and understand about God. The word theology literally means, the study of God.

“ If our lives are not founded on a well thought out theology, then what are they founded on? ”

Our text today begins in an interesting way. We have two, “since” statements. The writer says, “Since we have confidence to enter the holy places...” (Heb. 10:19). And, “Since we have a great high priest...” (Heb 10:21). These two statements are concluding statements of a theological foundation that he has been laying for ten chapters. Then, he goes into what our response should be. We should draw near, hold fast, and consider.

These three phrases represent a life that is functioning on a theological foundation. Yes, they are practical and applicable commands, but they do not stand alone. This call is based on the theological foundation he spent ten chapters developing.

As we consider these things, let us also consider what theological foundation our lives are founded upon. Is it a carefully considered foundation? Have we given close thought to what we know about God and how that should affect our priorities? If our lives are not founded on a well thought out theology, then what are they founded on? Truly, any other foundation will fail us.

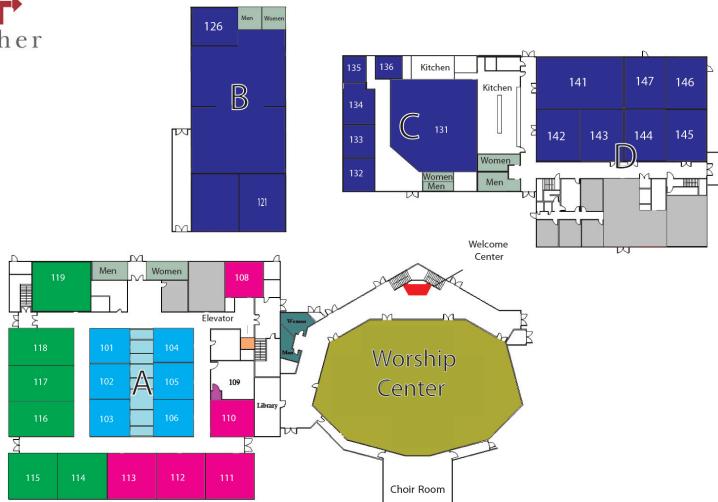

Let me encourage you to give consideration to your own theology. Read the word. Pray. Study. Wrestle. Do the work to come to a biblical understanding of God and the way you live your life.

Honored to be your pastor,
