THOUGHTS ON THE JOURNEY

Another Presidential election is staring us in the face, and we can rest assured that opinions are going to abound. It seems like every election in my lifetime has been viewed as make or break for America. Elect the wrong man, and that is the end of America as we know it. Yet, it always seems to be alright in the end.

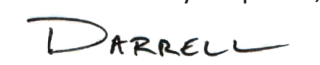

“Do we long to see God move? Are we ready to get serious about our sin? Are we ready to say, have your own way, Lord?”

On the other hand, when we look at the general direction of America, we must admit that there is certainly a moral and spiritual slide that is taking place. I personally think this slide has more of an impact on the sort of leaders we elect as opposed to the leaders impacting the slide. But, either way, we need desperately for something to happen in our land.

I do believe that there is still hope for this nation. However, it is going to involve God doing some incredible things. In order to see that happen, I think the church is going to have to make some adjustments. First of all, prayer is going to have to be at the center of all we do. All great revivals and awakenings can trace their roots to prayer. These great movements have always been propped up by prayer, sometimes with even just a few praying.

As the church begins to pray, she is going to have to be open to what God says to do. She is going to have to be open to repentance, to stepping out in faith, and to laying down so much of what we have become accustomed to in our lives.

I think the real question is simply this, are we hungry, yet? Do we long to see God move? Are we ready to get serious about our sin? Are we ready to say, have your own way, Lord? Such an attitude of heart will be necessary if we long to see God move.
