

CODY MOORE
Student Pastor

Hello Northside Family, I hope that this summer has been amazing for you. I know it has been hot and trying, but refreshing. Before summer hit I spent about two and a half months calling and spending time with a lot of other student ministers and ministries all over the place. Researching and picking their brains about student ministry and how it looks differently now from where I started with it. One of the main things that I found was each student ministry was so different from each other. I personally want to do my best for our students and their family, and to do that we are making a huge change this fall. The first change happens on MidWeek services, or Wednesday Nights. We are better together when we fill the room with energy for games and worship. We are better when we separate Junior High and High School to teach. There is a huge difference between a sixth grader and an eighth grader. Between a sixth grader and a senior you can fit our whole universe. This is why we will split for our teaching times during MidWeek. I have a group that will lead out opposite of me in teaching and leading. We will be back and forth between High School and Junior High depending on what works best for each group.

We will start with a new series the second week of school that I am so excited to teach and share. The Awe of God series will focus on the moments that God showed people who He was, such as the burning bush and the moments before Moses went up the mountain to meet with God. In those moments God moves and the people just stand still in shock and awe. For the first week we will be all together, but for the next eight weeks we will separate and dig deep into this series together. This change has been prayed through and struggled through so much over the last semester.

Another change will be a little further down the road, but I am praying about how the Triads or Discipleship groups are formed and ran. I hope by our spring semester that we are launching those on Sunday nights. Not just at the church but in our schools and in homes.

Thank you so much for allowing me not only to serve students and their families here at Northside, but to serve you all and our community. I am so blown away how much you all have loved me through a trying time with my foot. Each week I have people calling me with encouragement, texting me they are praying, and just people stopping by and asking me how I am doing. It has been a tough season, but when things are not so much fun for a season, I have heard the next one will be a blessing! I can not wait to see what God does through this semester in my own life, our church, and our students.
