

Groundhog Day

Groundhog Day is a purely North American tradition. Its roots go back to early Dutch settlers in Pennsylvania. The diary entry of storekeeper James Morris of Morgantown, Pennsylvania, dated February 4, 1841, and displayed at Franklin and Marshall College, states: “Last Tuesday, the 2nd, was Candlemas Day, the day on which, according to the Germans, the groundhog peeps out of his winter quarters and if he sees his shadow he pops back for another six weeks nap, but if the day be cloudy he remains out, as the weather is to be moderate.” How wonderful it would be if we could get up in the morning, look outside, and then determine if the next six weeks were worth living. If the day was not suitable, we could just go back to bed until things improved. God gives us the power of memory, not prophecy. We can look back as far as our mind will allow us, but we cannot look forward. Have you ever thought what life would be like if you could see down the road? What if you knew the exact time and place of your death? What if you could envision how many children you would have and whether or not those children would be healthy? The most sobering “what if” is this: What if you knew the exact time of Jesus’ return? Jesus claimed that only the Father knows the time of His return (Mark 13:32). Why is that true? Why did Jesus not tell the world, “I am coming back on June 15, 2041 at 3:22 p.m. Be ready!”? I suppose there are many reasons for this, but one seems to be the most logical: If we knew the exact day of Jesus’ return, we would only prepare for that day; we would tend to live for ourselves. The only thing we need to know about the future is: The Lord is coming again. We need to be ready to see Him.

Sonya Irwin’s surgery went well. She was in a lot of pain. They will send the tumor off for testing. There is a slight chance the tumor is malignant.

Neal Williams (Father of Andrea Lampley) is recovering well from had carotid artery surgery. He goes Thursday February 5 to another eye specialist to try and help save the eye he still has his sight in.

Joel Kimble has been put under hospice care.

Marlee Nye seems to be improving. She still has a lot of healing to do, and possibly another treatment ahead of her.
