

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS:

1. What struck you as most meaningful in this video?
2. Steve says that “guys just lock up” when it comes to talking about sex with their kids. What is the hardest part about talking with your sons? Did this chapter help you to feel more confident?
3. How did you learn about sex?
4. When it comes to being the primary influence in your son’s life, which of Steve’s tips helped you most?
5. In Proverbs 5, the father is very frank with his son about two different women—the adulteress (or “fast girl”) and his future wife.
 - a. What consequences of infidelity does he lay out to his son?
 - b. What advantages of a pure sexual relationship with your wife does he lay out?
6. Today pornography invades a boy’s life in astonishing ways. Brainstorm among yourselves about how to prepare & protect your boys in this area.

TAKE IT HOME:

- Sex education is a lifelong venture. Your son will have struggles through every stage of life—whether with peers, pornography, temptations in dating relationships, or inevitable frustrations in marriage. How can you keep the man-to-man door of communication open all the way into his adult years?
