LIFE

People helping people live out the unexpected love of Jesus every day.

This is fiction - my perception of Luke 8: 42-48...

...I'd heard he was coming...I'd heard he was a great teacher and taught from the Scriptures better than our leaders. I'd heard that he performed miracles...I'd heard...

There was excitement from every street that he was coming through my village. I had to see him, I had to get his attention, he could heal me I know he could. I had this last hope. Then I could go home, I could hold my husband and son. My son had become a man since I had to leave. I watched him grow from afar, unable to do the things I wanted as a mother, unable to be a wife. 12 years of searching for wholeness, 12 years of shouting "unclean", 12 years of embarrassment for my family. It could be over today. He's coming this way.

I'm waiting at the bend by the fig tree, this is a wide place in the road, he'll see me here, and if he doesn't I'll shout...I'll ask him to heal me, I know he can...I hope he will.

The first people come around the house, then more and more and more, I can't see him...where is he...wait he's in the middle of the crowd, they're getting closer and closer, there's too many of them he won't hear me...I shout, "Teacher, please help me"...he doesn't hear. I shout it again... people are pushing me. I know I'm not supposed to be in the crowd, but I push in trying to get his attention...shouting. He's walking on, what can I do? Maybe if I just touch him, his power will heal me. I reach out, people are all around pushing...if I could just reach a little farther I could touch him, I can't reach far enough, I've only touched his robe...

...the most amazing warmth runs up my arm, though people are still pushing at me and there is noise everywhere, I'm as still as if I were alone in the crowd...feeling the warmth run through my body. I know...I know...its gone, the bleeding has stopped. I could live in this moment forever. Then I realize the crowd has stopped moving and the noise has silenced. My eyes come into focus and I realize that He has turned and is staring at me. Those eyes...piercing me. He's asked something...He wants to know who touched Him. I look around the crowd...I'm trembling now - don't know if its from the experience or from the look in His eyes, I fall to my knees,

"in the presence of all the people, she declared the reason she had touched Him and how she was instantly healed. "Daughter," He said to her, "your faith has saved you, go in peace." vs. 47b - 48
