

Our Value Is...

That means...

Disciples are made in relationships.

Jesus' plan for evangelism and church growth is simple: Make disciples. We believe that disciple-making best takes place in loving, intentional, authentic, personal, and transparent relationships. The most effective tool for evangelism and church growth is to make Christ-like disciples who make Christ-like disciples.

Biblical literacy leads to biblical living.

Jesus' disciples should see the Bible as the lens through which they view the world around them. Disciples who know and esteem the Bible practice what it teaches. That's why we teach and preach Scripture to obtain the highest level of biblical literacy and practice possible.

Collaboration is God's design for church leadership.

We believe that the New Testament presents collaborative leadership as the blueprint for the church. We recognize and embrace God's good design in the collaboration, transparency, accountability, and humility required for decision-making in His church.

Love is essential to our culture.

We want people to feel welcomed and loved in our church. So we're committed to building a relational culture in which we share burdens, celebrate victories, mourn losses, and encourage one another to live for Christ. Love also propels us with compassion to meet the physical and spiritual needs around us.

Prayer saturates our work.

Our church is committed to Christ's call and mandate, "My house shall be a house of prayer for the nations." We're passionate about infusing prayer throughout our culture, community, worship, and ministries.

God's glory consumes our lives.

Since God is incomparably great, and He alone is worthy of worship, we want every aspect of our lives to glorify Him and reflect His glory. When we gather for corporate worship, our sole focus is expression of our love and adoration toward Him.

We live like the gospel is urgent.

Knowing that lost people enter eternity apart from Christ daily, Calvary takes the Great Commission seriously. We equip, encourage, and expect all believers to practice a lifestyle of personal relationship evangelism. We also partner with missionaries and national pastors overseas to reach people around the world with the gospel.

We steward everything we have for God.

We regard all our time, talents, and finances as gifts from God to be used for His glory and in the building of His Kingdom. Beyond the tithes and offerings evident in Scripture, we also find creative ways to meet needs locally and around the world. These acts of service help us access people's lives for the sake of the gospel.
