COMFORTABLY NUMB

Repetition is comfortable, change is scary. We know this to be true in our lives. When we know what the day is going to hold, no surprises coming our way, no problem. We can relax, we've been there before. However, when we are stepping into the unknown, like a new job, a new relationship or new commitments, we become nervous, anxious and uptight. So it is easier to just stay in our own lane day after day, week after week and year after year.

In the Bible there's a place called the Pool of Bethesda. The spring was believed to be stirred by angels every so often, and when stirred, those who managed to jump in the pool would be healed. Every day, a large number of disabled people would lay next to the pool, getting as close to the edge as possible so they wouldn't miss their shot at being healed. One day Jesus walked up to the pool and met a disabled man who had been lying by the pool for thirty-eight years.

When Jesus saw him lying there and learned that he had been in this condition for a long time, he asked him, "Do you want to get well?" John 5:6

What may sound like a stupid question really has a lot of bite. This man was at the place of healing. He knew the potential of the water. And who in their right mind would want to remain disabled? Yet, he refused to answer Jesus' simple question. He only made excuses as to why his life has remained the same for almost four decades.

I believe this describes a large number of "church goers". We become comfortable with our average Christian lives and our daily struggles. And just like the disabled man we are so close to a radical upgrade to our lives, but we remain on the edge of the pool. Jesus is inviting us to take a leap of faith and jump into the pool. Put your total faith in Him and experience all that He has to offer. But so many have found a comfortable place by the edge of the pool making excuses. Jesus has a question for you today, "Do you want to get well?"

Phillip
